COMMENT OF THE DAY

What Now?

TATHAT is to be the future ¥¥ of the Bagdad Pact now that Iraq has overthrown the pro-Western regime of King Faisal? The annual meeting is to be held in on Monday. Mr Dulles is to attend and there are renewed suggestions that America is to become a full member. There are more valid reasons now for supposing this might happen. Without Iraq, its only Arab member, the been denied i one of its main roles: that of countering Communist subversion in the Arab lands of the Middle East. It was hoped at the inception of the pact that Iraq's membership might in time show sufficiently attractive results to induce other Arab states to join.

Implied in the pact and its economic provisions was the West's new association with the Middle East. The Eisenhower doctrine was an extension of the idea, not directly associated with it, but designed to place at the disposal of Arab states aid which would enable them to maintain national dignity and economic independence.

Showing Concern

INTHEN America's ambassador at large, James . Richards, began his doctrine - hoosting Middle East tour—in March last year—the United States had no thought of joining the pact. Diplomats in New York, suggested the Security Council might] meet early next week to take a step towards meeting the Soviet proposal for a summit conference at the United Nations. While it is generally agreed that the summit cannot be attained by Monday, as Russia suggests, diplomats pointed out that the Council could meet at the permanent representatives level as early as Monday-and offset any charge of Western pro-

At such a meeting the Council could issue invitations to an agreed list of Heads of Government of non-member states in accordance with Khrushchev's insistence that the Arab nations and India should attend a summit meeting on the Middle East. A summit conference in the week beginning on Sunday, August 10, would enable Mr John Foster Dulles, 'the United States Secretary of State, to carry out the vielt he has undertaken to make to Brazil from August 5 to 8.

It would also, observers eald, give the Western ailles time in a series of intensive consultations and conferences to coordinate their views which, in the diplomatic flurry of the last ten days, have become notably divergent. The idea of a summit meeting of the Becurity Council is due to. British initiative. The United States appeared to have been pushed by Britain with marked reluctance. It is no secret in Paris that General de Gaulle dislikes the British idea of holding summit talks in the United Nations Security Council. But a Paris report, quoting a ministerial statement after a meeting

York on Monday and this is expected to be delivered and publicly released sometime tomorrow. It would be sent to Britain and France beforehand.

While no official disclosures of its contents have been made, mem-· bers of Congress who attended an evening briefing by a State Department expert quoted this official as saying that President Eigenhower's reply would not be a simple acceptance of Khrushchev's terms.

One Congressman quoted the afficial, Mr William Macomber, special assistant to Mr Dulles, as saying that there would be some strings attached, but he did not say what these strings would

United Press international report said there was a possibility that Mr Elsenhower would insist that Israel would be invited to the New York meeting if Khrushchev wanted unrestricted talks covering the entire range of Middle East problems instead

Mr Eisenhower is also expected to ask for procedure to be laid down in advance. U.S. Officials cautioned against assuming there would be a quick final agreement on holding a summit meet-

11-YEAR-OLD PRIMITIVE AXE LANTAO

By ANDREW SLOAN A youthful amateur geologist found an axe head on Lantao last week which is estimated to be 2,000-3,000 years old. It is difficult to place an accurate date on the axe head, but it is believed to have been used in the Neolithic or Paleolithic Ages. While walking along a path in the Tai Pak:

region of Lantao, 11-year old Carl C. Gruzhit saw a piece of stone lying on the path. "It did not look natural, so I picked it up," he said this morning. This intelligent young American boy became interested in stones when he first came to the Colony about a year ago.

This interest was kept alive because an expert geologist lives next door to Carl has a flair for picking up strange stones. He found a piece of petrified . wood in a desert in New Mexico while

SINGAPORE'S DEFENCE AGAINST COMMUNISM

London, July 24. The British government said tonight it was convinced that the best defence against the threat of Communism in Singapore was for the people Singapore to rule themselves.

MORNING SHOWS | Lord Perth, Minister of State for Colonial Affairs, told the House of Lords this tonight when speaking on a bill — which was passed with a vote - paving the way for virtual selfgovernment for Singapore in home affairs.

This includes internal security, but excludes defence and external affairs which will still be controlled by Britain.

As the bill has already been passed by the Commons, it now only awalts the formal Royal essent to become law.

Lord Perth said most of passed by the Commons, it now the citizens of Singapore, which is to be known as the State of Singapore, were Chinese, Naturally some felt the pull of Communist China. "But we believe in them," he said, "We believe that giving them liberty to tackle their own affairs is the best way to ensure they will act responsibly and fairly and succeed in defending their way of life against the Communist threat."

A Risk The government was taking a conscious risk, he went on. "Something may go wrongwe don't believe it will. We remain convinced that the best defence against the threat of Communism is freedom of expression and for the people of Singapore to rule themselves.

"This bill and all that goes with it is based on trust in the people of Singapore."
The Labour Opposition made only one criticism of the billa ban on people standing for elections known to have been engaged in subversive activities. "If these people are so popular_they_will be elected at the second election," he said. "If we are going to have trouble we might as well have it now as defer it for a year or of governing themselves. Answering further points, he said Singapore would still be open for Colonial Development Corporation investment and Colonial Development and Welfare Grant. The United Kingdom Commissioner would report to the Colonial Secretary. it would be his responsibility to look after the luterests of United Kingdom citizens.

DRAMATIC 7TH DAY AT THE EMPIRE GAMES

Australia's David Power Tops Highlight With Marathon Victory

For sheer drama, it would be difficult to better today's happenings in the athletic programme at the Arms Park stadium - A new world record, another one equalled, countless Games and British records, a hurdler falling flat on his face when practically certain of victory, two runners fighting for the lead in the street right outside the stadium after 25 weary miles, and then another hurdler

SPORTS PERSONALITIES

By TONY There was a time when weight training was considered an egoistic pastime. A weight trainee was termed a 'tape addict.' Sceptics considered the sport as the surest way to retard success in other sporting activities and regarded it as the short cut to a muscle-bound condi-

His One Goal

A great deal of what I have already said, I learnt, after interviewing our sports personality for this week, Dr Alfred Joseph Mauricio.

Now here is a mon who has devoted his life to physical culture, and, whose one goal is not personal benefit but helping others attain a high physical etandard. Dr Mauricio is now in his sixtieth year, but one is com-. pelled to look on him with admiration, for he is a perfect specimen of physical fitness. Dr Mauricio can quite easily be called the father of weight training in Hongkong, for when he first set foot in the Colony in 1924, he recalls with a certain amount of pride, "There wasn't a single gym in

- cxistence." Prior to this, he had been teaching over a period of seven years, physical training, tumbling, hand-balancing and judo, in Malaya,

Dynamic Personality

Setting up shop in a strange country is never an easy task, and the young doctor found it even more difficult in Hongkong as interest in the sport at the time was void.

However, his dynamic personality pulled him through. He started off with a mere handful of pupils, but Hongkong provided so many distractions that he found it quite a task to hold on to them. But he did, and as their interest in the sport grew, so did the number of pupils.

In time, the Mouricio College of Physical Education was founded. The name has been changed of late to the Mauricio College of Physical and Metaphysical Education.

The ball was really rolling now, so Dr Mhuriclo introduced a class of judo....the success he has achieved in this particular field speaks volumes.

25,000 Pupils

Interest in jude overtook that of weight training and at pre-cent, the Doctor told me. Nine out of ten people who come to him want to learn judo.
